CHRISTMAS TO BE WELCOMED

TREES TO BE PLACED AT STREET CORNERS NEXT WEEK.

SANTA CLAUS COMING

Kiddies Will Receive Treat of Candy on Saturday Before Christmas—Trees Lighted After Thanksgiving.

Maryville may not have Santa Claus' reindeer nor an Aretic dog team, but the Christmas season is nevertheless to be ushered in here next week.

A committee from the Maryville Chamber of Commerce has arranged for the erection of nine large Christmas trees at each of the principal street intersections in the business district. They will be erected on the Friday morning after Thanksgiving. They will then be decorated and the lights turned on for the first time on Saturday night.

Christmas trees were placed last year at five intersections. The plan brought such favorable comment that an extension was decided upon. And this year the trees will be twelve feet high instead of ten.

The intersections at which the gaily bedecked evergreens will be placed are Main and First, Main and Second, Main and Third, Main and Fourth, Main and Fifth, Third and Market, Fourth and Market, Second and Buchanan and Third and Buchanan.

The large trees were obtained from the Shenandoah Nurseries at Shenandoah, Ia.

A plan is under consideration to get a number of smaller trees to be placed in the flag pole sockets in front of the various stores.

And as special news for the kiddies it was announced that Santa himself will come to Maryville on the Saturday before Christmas with candy for all the children.

W.C.T.U. MEET AT SKIDMORE

RESOLVE TO STRESS TEMPERANCE INSTRUCTION.

PRESIDENT RE-ELECTED

All Unions In County Are Represented.—Mrs. Flora Miller, Holt County, Gives Talk.

The annual convention of the Nodaway County W. C. T. U., which was held with the Skidmore Union yesterday, adopted the following resolution:

Whereas, "'Through the temperance education of one generation we gained the Eighteenth Amendment,' be it resolved that we continue to stress scientific temperance instruction in our schools lest 'through the lack of education of our generation' we lose what we have gained."

The president, Miss Alice Peters of Burlington Junction, was re-elected. Miss Ollie Carpenter of Clearmont, the secretary, also was re-elected. Mrs. Lewis Lambert of Arkoe, was elected vice-president and Mrs. Celia Linville of Skidmore is the new treasurer. Miss Jennie White, the retiring vice-president and Mrs. R. L. McDougal retiring treasurer, asked that they not be re-elected.

For the departmental work Mrs. T. M. Jones and Mrs. Lewis Lambert both of Arkoe, were reappointed for Bible in the public schols and temperance in the Sunday Schools, respectively. Mrs. H. W. Montgomery of Skidmore, was appointed superintendent of the department of scientific temperance instruction in the public schools. Mrs. Robert Lyle of Maryville, was appointed superintendent of press.

Representatives from every union in the county were present. Mrs. Flora Miller of Mound City, president of the Holt County Union, was the guest and speaker of the convention.

The morning session opened with devotions conducted by Mrs. Geyer of the Skidmore Union. She chose for her subject, "Trust," and read responsively the Thirty Fourth Psalm.

The business of the convention took most of the morning. Reports were received from the county officers, from the various departmental superintendents and the unions of the county.

An expression of appreciation for the faithfulness and labor for the cause was extended to Mrs. Sarah Wolcott, formerly of Maryville, now of Kansas City, and Mrs. Flora Newlon of Clearmont.

Following the noon-tide prayer led by Miss White the noon hour recess was held. Dinner was served in the basement of the church by the Women of the Skidmore Union.

Mrs. Miller gave a report of the state convention recently held in Kansas City. Following are excerpts from various addresses there and from those given at Mound City by Mrs. Mason, a national W. C. T. U. speaker and organizer who was to have attended this convention on the original date in September. The date was postponed because of the heavy rains:

Speaking on "The Road to Jerico" and applying it to the temperance work. Mrs. Mann said, "How many, many fall among thieves and how many many dis-interested ones, like the priest pass by on the other side. We of the W. C. T. U. should, and are, constantly on the alert for the opportunity to be the Good Samaritan and to give the helping hand whenever and wherever we can and then to be willing to do even more if needed. "'Fret not thyself because of evil doers'. We are in the midst of evil doers surrounded by them and for this reason every Christian woman is needed in this organization to lift and build up and to be co-workers together with the Master.

"When the wets win a victory it is because the drys quit work."

"Missouri has for years been a battle ground for the dry and wet forces. The W. C. T. U. has been like the leaven which the woman took and hid in the three measures of meal and has leavened the entire mass."

"We are not responsible for results but we are responsible for effort. We should, every one, 'Stand up, stand up for Jesus, Lift high his royal banner."

A quotation from Frances Willard, "Knowing our cause will be combatted by mighty, fearless, and relentless forces, trusting in Him who is Prince of Peace, let us meet misunderstanding with patience, meet argument with argument, denouncement with kind-

CASHIER SHOT, NO GUN FOUND

MOKANE BANKER A SUICIDE OR MURDER VICTIM.

HIS WALLET EMPTY

Watch and Small Change Found in Pockets, However.—Had Called State Finance Commission.

Jefferson City, Nov. 17.—The body of James A. Dickinson, cashier of the Farmers Bank of Mokane, was found today on a bridge between Cole and Callaway counties.

He had been shot in the head.

Authorities were unable to find any traces of a gun and were unable to say whether Dickinson had committed suicide or had been robbed and murdered. He had a small amount of change in his pocket and a gold watch, but an empty wallet was found by his side.

A short piece of gas pipe with a rubber end was found near the body.

A coroner's inquest will be held later, although jurisdiction of the body has not been determined, as it is unknown whether Dickinson was found in Cole or in Calloway county.

A few days ago the cashier called the State Finance Department and asked for a conference. It was granted and it is presumed Dickinson was en route to Jefferson City.

Officials of the bank said there was no shortage in the bank and that Dickinson's accounts were in excellent shape. The state banking department also announced the affairs of the bank also were in good shape.

Officials here now believe Dickinson was murdered by a highwayman.

Judgment in Case Here Is Affirmed

Court of Appeals Upholds Verdict Awarding Blondina Jones, Pickering, Sum of $2,000.

The Kansas City Court of Appeals recently affirmed the decision given in the circuit court here in the case of Blondina Jones Pickering against W. E. Hartsock, the Medical Protective Association, garnishee, giving judgment for the plaintiff for $2,000.

DRY CAMPAIGN IS ARRANGED

WET AND DRY ISSUE DOMINANT IN PRIMARIES.

TO SETTLE PROHIBITION

Anti-Saloon League Confident That A Vote Of The People Will End Controversy.

Washington, Nov. 17.—The wet and dry question will be the dominant issue in the 1928 primaries and elections, W. M. Forgrave, Boston, member of the national executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League predicted here today following adjournment of the committee's annual meeting, which made preliminary plans for 1928.

"Prohibition must and will be removed from the controversial field in 1928," Forgave, Massachusetts superintendent of the league, told the United Press. "We hope to have the issue settled in the primaries of the Presidentional eleceion year.

"When the question is put directly to the people, the country will find that many who now howl the loudest for modification of the prohibition law will be the first to vote against changing it. Common sense will prevail over personal desires."

Forgrave said the Anti-Saloon League and other dry organizations will soon inaugurate an extensive educational campaign to instruct citizens on the benefit of prohibition.

Meet at Foster Home.

The semi-monthly meeting of the senior Wesminister Guild of the Presbyterian Church was held last night at the home of Mrs. Henry A. Foster on Normal avenue, with Miss Nora Ritze as joint hostess. Mrs. W. N. Dewar was the devotional leader and the lesson was in charge of Miss Margaret Davison, who discussed the fifth chapter of the text book, "Moslem Women." At the close of the study hour refreshments were served, Miss Mary Fisher assisting the hostesses. Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Florence Staples of Kansas City, Mrs. Stewart Farrar of Casper, Wyo., and Miss Fisher. There were twenty-four members present.

Announcement Party.

The engagement of Miss Ethel Bosley, sister of Mrs. P. J. Jantz of Maryville, to Leslie A. Sample of Pitkin, Colo., was announced at an informal party given Monday afternoon at the Jantz home, 408 East Third street. P. J. Jantz, jr., nephew of the bride-elect, as Cupid, passed cards on which the names of the couple appeared. A mock wedding was another diversion for the afternoon and light refreshments were served. Twenty-five guests were entertained. The bride-to-be recently completed a course in nurse's training at Fort Collins, Colo., and formerly lived in Maryville.

Celebrates 60th Birthday.

A number of relatives and friends were invited to the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Lawson, south of Ravenwood, Sunday to celebrate the sixtieth birthday of Mrs. Lawson. At noon dinner was served cafeteria style. The dining room was decorated in pink and white, the two colors being used in the dinner appointments. A large pink and white angel food cake holding sixty pink candles and three bouquets of pink, white and yellow chrysanthemums were used in the table decorations. The flowers were presented to Mrs. Lawson by Berneta McKee of Maryville, Mr. and E. E. Lawson and children, and Hulbert Lawson, son of the honor guest. During the afternoon music was furnished by Mrs. Ray Comer, piano, Mr. Comer, violin, and Hulbert Lawson, banjo. A. Caldwell, Mrs. George Kirchhofer and Mrs. Ray L. Harrison; constitution and by-laws, Mrs. J. J. Turner, Mrs. Garnett Gray Watt and Mrs. John Mutz; publicity, Mrs. Clyde Kegin. The society voted to contribute $5.00 to the Red Cross fund and decided to send a Christmas box to some government hospital to be selected later.

Burlington Junction

J. Howard Thompson, Correspondent.

Burlington Junction, as usual, will publicly observe the annual Thanksgiving Day. The service will be a union service and will be held in the Christian Church, the sermon being preached by the Pastor of the Methodist Church. Special singing will be provided for and a general good time is promised. The service will be be held at night to begin at 7:30. The general public is urged to attend.

John Bales who three months ago suffered a paralytic stroke, which rendered him helpless at the time, suffered a second stroke last week, and is in a critical condition at this writing. His many friends are hoping for a turn for the better soon.

This community was visited by a pronounced thunder and lightning storm on Saturday night, when a little more than an inch of rain fell. Sunday morning was so warm and springlike that it was more like an April morn than a November day.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. House have traded their beautiful home in the north part of town for Gentry County land. In the exchange they become possessors of ninety-seven and one half acres of fine land. There being but two of them in the family, they will move into a suite of rooms over their drug store, which will mean much conserving of fuel and other matters for the winter.

Walton Bales, of College Springs, Ia., was called to the bedside of his father, John Bales, who is seriously ill at his home here in town, and will remain for a few days to assist in caring for him.

Mrs. J. W. Ritcher of near Kansas City, and daughter of Mrs. John Bales, came Saturday night, at seven o'clock, for a few days visit with her mother and other friends. Mrs. Bales is confined to her room, due to over work in helping care for her sick husband.

Hog cholera seems to be making its insidious invasion into various herds of hogs throughout the neighborhood, as farmers here and there are losing their hogs in some instances in large numbers. Willie Nicholas, jr., has already lost forty head, with a number of others on his farm sick. This will work a hardship on the farmers.

Comrade John Greeley who was to have made one of the addresses at the Union Armistice Day services, did not get in on account of the exertmely bad weather, and condition of the roads. He lives seven miles in the country, and feared he would have trouble in getting to town, and back again. We greatly missed that part of the service. He is a good platform man.

Rev. J. Howard Thompson went to Skidmore Monday morning in the interest of the New Missouri Methodist Hospital, located in St. Joseph. Owing to the muddy condition of the roads, he went by train rather than by auto. He yet has four pastoral charges in his group to canvass, viz: Skidmore, Burr Oak, Burlington Junction, and Clearmont. Elmo. He hopes to have his work in this group completed by Thursday night.

The Armistice Day services at the Methodist Church Sunday night were very impressive and interesting. The singing with sixteen members of the chorus present was of the best. The solo by Miss Catherine Fleming, captivated the audience, and the address of Rev. A. L. Ragsdale was good and down to the minute in its thinking. There were many very favorable comments heard from all quarters. While the house was not full yet the audience was large for such inclement weather. There were a number of American Legion members present.

Robert Yaple visited in Columbia, Mo., with friends Saturday and Sunday of last week and incidentally witnessed the football game between Missouri and Washington University. He was accompanied by Robert Barber, jr. They returned home Monday.

Rev. J. Howard Thompson was called to Graham Tuesday to conduct the funeral of Joseph Noblet, jr., who died in a hospital in St. Joseph, Sunday morning from intestinal trouble. This is the third time in two weeks Mr. Thompson has been called to this community for funerals. He was pastor of the Methodist Church in Graham some years ago, and has many friends in the community.

The date of the home coming for the Christian Church people, is changed from November 21 to Sunday, November 28. There are unavoidable reasons for this change, and all who are interested will take due notice of the change.

L. E. Stafford, living on the T. E. Fordyce farm, southeast of Burlington Junction held a public sale yesterday (Tuesday), when he disposed of all his chattles, including his farming implements, stock, and household furniture and will leave the farm. His wife has been in California for some time, and in all probability, he will soon join his wife there and make their future home in the "Golden State." Mrs. Stafford and Mrs. Loren of Burlington Junction are sisters.

Rev. C. W. Simonds of Oklahoma was in town for a few hours Saturday on his way from Bolckow to Tarkio, where he was engaged to preach in the Methodist Church of that city. He is the director of the hospital campaign for the St. Joseph district of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He preached at Rock Port at night.

This is the last announcement to be made relative to the annual bazaar to be put on by the Industrial Society of the Methodist Church. The bazaar will be held next Saturday in the armory building, and a chicken dinner and supper will be held in connection with it. The price of the dinner will be fifty cents and of the supper thirty-five cents. You can't afford to miss it. Come and bring your friends with you.

The Parent-Teachers Association will be held in the assembly room of the high school building Thursday (tomorrow) night. This is a deferred meeting. A good program has been provided and you will greatly enjoy it. Don't fail to attend.

As a result of the continuous rain of Saturday and most of Saturday night, the mud is deep and the roads almost impassable. Cars continue to go, but with great difficulty. There does not seem to be much hope for improvement at the present.

Two things of a very attractive nature happened at the Sunday morning services, in the Methodist Episcopal Church. One was the music furnished for the Sunday school by the newly organized Sunday school orchestra. Their music was of a very high order. The other was the solo, sung by Miss Pauline Walker, during the public services. Miss Walker always captivates when she sings. Her effort Sunday morning was highly pleasing to all present.

Mrs. Esther Fowler and daughter, who have been here for the past four or five weeks, returned to their home in Guyman, Okla., last Friday. While here she visited her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lon Monk, and other friends. She was born and reared in this community and can count her friends by the number of people here.

L. E. Miller, who has been sick for the past two months, is so far recovered as to be at his desk in his jewelry store at work a part of the time. This will be good news to his friends.

The annual Christmas Seal sale is now on again. These are disposed of for the benefit of the Tubercular societies of the state and counties. They are distributed for the most part by the school children of the various schools of the state. The aggregation from the sales over the state amount to a considerable sum. It is to be hoped that none will refuse to buy them when given an opportunity.

The recent rains have again put the roads and fields in very bad condition. Travel on the roads is very difficult, and corn picking in the fields is all but impossible. The mud is so deep that but small loads can be pulled out at a time. It makes the gathering of the corn crop a slow process. The farmers are finding much damaged corn as a result of the continued wet weather.

Miss Elizabeth Frahse, of Falls City, Neb., who has been at the head of the millinery department of the Junction Mercantile Co., finished her work and returned to her home on Tuesday of this week, for a few weeks rest and recuperation. She will return for work in the spring season.

Robert Shields left Tuesday morning for Commanch, Okla., where he will combine business with pleasure. He will be absent from town about a month.

The canvass for funds for the new hospital in St. Joseph began in earnest today (Wednesday) in town. The Rev. G. B. Draper, pastor of the Methodist church in Maitland, is in town assisting the pastor. It will take two or three days to make the canvass complete.

Laundry Is Mecca For Persons Hunting Articles Fancied Lost

I'm a telephone girl in a laundry
And hear all lost article claims.
And it keeps us in a quandary
O'er the "new articles" milady names.

"The articles that people really lose by sending them to the laundry are not so hard for us to return or adjust," declared Mrs. F. A. Bush of the Maryville Steam Laundry, "but its the ones they think they send that causes us our trouble and real grief."

"The minute people miss things they decide they sent them to the laundry by mistake and if they find that we cannot produce the goods they decide that our help has "misplaced" them, she explained.

However, many times things are missent to the laundry and Mrs. Bush told of one man sending a diamond stud. He forgot to remove it from his shirt. One of the workers found it and turned it in to the desk. She might have kept it and no one would ever have known. When the man frantically rushed to the laundry as a last resort to find the stud he was given the diamond. He said "thank you" to the girl who returned it. That was all.

Recently a five dollar bill went through the "wash" and was not injured. Cuff links, powder puffs, and yes, even love letters are sent.

Giving examples of errors, Mrs. Bush told of one woman who purchased several madras remnants "on sale". She sent them to the laundry at once. They were returned the same day and had received Mrs. Bush's personal observation. The woman called stating that one piece was "short" and she was sure one of the workers had wanted to use some of it for quilt blocks. Of course the workers have little time to make quilts. However, the customer was persuaded to measure the cloth and she discovered that she had one fourth yard more in the piece than she had paid for at the store.

Many times the laundry is the loser, when articles are lost and customers insist that they were lost at the laundry. One Maryville man returned from a trip to Kansas City and sent down his laundry. When it was returned he insisted that two suits of woolen underclothing were not returned. The laundry had to buy the underwear and the underclothing probably never entered the laundry, Mrs. Bush said.

Another woman called the laundry that twenty of her loveliest linen towels had disappeared and of course the laundry had kept them. The laundry paid for them, besides having the customer lose faith in the establishment. Six months later she called the laundry that the towels were found. "I put them away when my new maid came and completely forgot them. I am sorry."

"Our work gives us a wonderful insight on the private lives of our customers," Mrs. Bush explained.

It is the general idea that clothing arriving at the laundry is thrown into one pile, and after the washing it is sorted the best way possible. Mrs. Bush said. "We have a system just like other businesses and when an error occurs it is because one worker has been neglectful."

Cuff links and gold and silver pins are among the commonest things sent to the laundry. They are taken to the general office and returned to the customer if they are discovered before they are lost in the water.

BIG GUNS AT CANAL URGED

CHIEF OF ARMY ENGINEERS URGES BETTER PROTECTION.

"PROGRAM TOO SLOW"

At Present Rate, Installation of 16-Inch Weapons Will Not Be Complete for 22 Years, He Says.

Washington, Nov. 17.—More big guns for the Panama Canal and improved harbor defenses for the United States are vitally essential to national preparedness, Major General Edgar Jadwin, Chief of Army Engineers, declared in his annual report today.

"Considering both the commercial and stategical importance of the canal, it is obvious that its proper protection should be one of the prime considerations in our plans for national defense; at the present rate of appropriations it will be 22 years before the program for the installation of 16-inch guns at the entrances of the canal is complete," according to the report.

"A revised general fortification project should be presented to Congress for approval which will place our harbor defenses in a proper condition to ward off naval attacks against our cities and naval bases.

"Granting that aircraft constitute a formidable means of assistance in protecting our coast line, it would nevertheless be unsafe to depend solely on that means of defense after our navy has been passed."

Jadwin also recommended: Completion of a topographical survey of the United States, especially along the borders and approaches to industrial areas; a decrease in the number of army engineer units and better distribution by corps areas; an increased number of engineers officers with better pay, promotion and retirement inducements to hold the junior officers in the army.

Hi-Y Club Formed at Burlington Junction

Sherman Ware Is Elected President of New Organization, Sponsored by Maryville Club.

A Hi-Y Club, the second one in the county, was organized last night at the Burlington Junction High School, with a group of eight boys, the superintendent of schools and a local minister. The organization was effected by the Maryville Club, which sent four boys with L. L. St. Clair, principal of the Maryville High School, to make speeches in the interest of the organization and the Trenton Older boy conference.

Sherman Ware was elected president; Glenn Severs, vice-president; Alva Ragsdale, secretary and Reginald Johnson, treasurer. They have not as yet selected a Hi-Y Board or a sponsor, but Superintendent, H. B. Rutledge will serve in that capacity until further organization develops.

The club will be filed by the Maryville club at the Missouri Young Men's Christian Association at St. Louis. They will receive affiliation papers and become connected with the State group.

The charter of the club, in addition to the officers named, are Charles Moore, Philip Good, George Manes and Robert Nicholas. A membership drive will be made.

The Rev. A. L. Ragsdale, pastor of the Christian Church at Burlington Junction, attended the meeting.

Those from Maryville who participated in the organization were L. L. St. Clair, Walter Allen, Lawrence Wray, Carl LeRoy Fisher and Paul Whaley.

Burlington Junction plans to send two or three boys to Trenton and they have been invited to join the Maryville delegation on the trip.

This and That

The following sentence was taken from an advertisement published in the Democrat-Forum regarding a carnival which was held here recently: "Athletic contests held every night; boxing, wrestling and dancing."

When Will Rogers talked to the junior farmers who are attending the American Royal Live Stock Show in Kansas City last night, he took advantage of his liberties as a farmer boy and told them that there would be less need for farm relief if the farmer would trade his speedometer for an alarm clock.

He also said that there was no strife on his "royal train" and that the Chevrolet man had been allowed to join the train again.

Speaking to the young women of the audience the comedian declared he was for "better education and shorter skirts."

Maryville's "town" clock has been five minutes slow for more than a week.

Dog, Dead, Is Worth 20 Times as Much

Geneva.—Citizens of a hamlet near Berne are congratulating one of the neighbors that he is literally "dog-gone" lucky; while some unkown Royalty believed to be King Albert of Belgium is—also literally—"dog gone" unlucky.

From the story they tell this neighbor was disputing with another neighbor while standing in a road, over the price of a dog which one of them wished to sell. The seller's price was 60 francs; the buyer's offer 50 francs. While they were wrangling a magnificent automobile with curtains drawn came down the road and killed the dog.

The machine stopped and the chauffeur after some conversation with the unknown occupant of the car handed the owner of the dog a thousand franc note asking him to say nothing about the incident "as his master was traveling incognito." It is now understood that about this time King Albert arrived in Switzerland incognito for a short stay.

No one has remarked on the dog's luck.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer.

Washington — "Whatsoever thou shalt ask of me, I will give it to thee, unto the half of my kingdom," said Herod to Salome when she danced before him and his guests.

Senator Lynn J. Frazier of North Dakota is the Salome of the next Congress.

A political outcast for two years, Frazier's power has become such that both Republican and Democratic parties are now casting amorous glances in his direction. Each side wants him to dance with it.

The question is, what will Frazier demand? The Republicans can hardly organize the next Congress without him unless they have some Democratic help.

Frazier, himself is sitting tight. It's not his move—yet. Obviously, he will be no turn-coat and progressive principles will continue to dominate his course, but he refuses to discuss his plans.

His principal interest, of course, is farm relief. It seems very likely that he will demand support for some one of the constructive relief measures which will be up before the seventieth Congress, as a price for whatever semblance of party regularity he agrees upon.

"I look for something important in farm relief in December, 1927," he told NEA Service. "I think sentiment is increasing among the farmers themselves and all classes of business men to that end. The manufacturers at last are realizing that they must have a healthy market among the farmers.

"I think some bill like the Norris-Sinclair bill would be better than the McNary-Haugen bill, but the McNary-Haugen measure would be better than nothing."

Frazier might even push a bill of his own in which he still has considerable faith but that, he said, would depend on conditions. He doesn't expect the forthcoming session to do much for the farmer.

His latest refusal to chime in with the administration is to be seen in his strong opposition to President Coolidge's tax rebate plan.

Growing Use of Soft Coal May Stop Wars

Discovery of New Bi-Products Seen as End to Struggle for Territory Yielding Cherished Materials.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Nov. 17.—The growing utilization of soft coal bi-products may have marked influence towards removing potential causes of future wars.

Scientists attending the first international conference on bituminous coal now in session at Carnegie institute here, believe struggles for territorities to supply raw materials may in the future be unnecessary. The need for oil, the supply of which is limited, has already brought about international complications which the scientists believe may be eliminated by the use of soft coal, which exists in such vast quantities.

Bituminous coal has already ceased to be used exclusively as a fuel and is now one of the important basic materials for chemical manufacture, Dr. George Patart, inspector general of munitions in France, said in relating the value of coal for the manufacture of synthetic chemicals.

Starting from the utilization of a few bi-products of coal when it was converted into coke, the recovery of other bi-products grew tremendously due to the need for benzol and tolul in the manufacture of munitions during the war period, Dr. Patart said.

The diversity of chemical by-products of soft coal was illustrated by the French chemist when he named some of them, thyl alcohol, acetic acid, dimlethyl ether, icobutyric aldehyde, acetone, for instance.

Synthetic products derived from fessil coal with the aid of mechanical energy supplied by the combustion of coal have succeeded in supplanting products derived from present periodical vegitation. It is thus that synthetic indigo has been substituted for indigo from plants, synthetic acetic acid for acetic acid resulting from fermentation.

The success of the substitute of an artificial technical product derived from coal for the corresponding natural products seems to be due to cheapness of the raw material, to the concentration of useful elements to the speed of its transformation in contrast to the high cost of cultivation, and to its distribution over large areas," Dr. Patart said.

Faust Elected to Congress by 6,747

Jefferson City, Nov. 17.—The official canvass did not alter the results in the 16 Missouri Congressional districts, by which the Democrats gained three seats, giving them 12, and the Republicans four seats in the Missouri delegation.

The final vote for the fourth district was as follows:

Charles L. Faust, (Rep.) of St. Joseph, 30,320; Dr. J. C. Whitsel (Dem.) of St. Joseph, 23,573. Faust's majority, 6,747.

He expects to be in the vicinity of Shenandoah next week buying logs for the Des Moines Furniture Company. There is a pretty good income to the farmers from these logs. The growth of walnut trees in Iowa should be encouraged as they are easily propagated and make rapid growth. The walnut is also the most valuable timber in America. The trees will grow on land that is not fit for grain farming.

Many Entries for International Show

11,000 Head of Livestock, 5,000 Samples of Small Grains and Other Products to Be Sent to Chicago.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—More than 11,000 head of livestock have been entered in competition for $100,000 in prizes and trophies, at the 27th annual International Live Stock exposition, and the annual International Hay and Grain show, which are to be held here from Nov. 27 to Dec. 4. The annual event is to be held in the Union Stock yards.

The foremost breeders and feeders of the land have been grooming their finest beef cattle, horses, sheep and hogs for months for the exposition. Fully 200 car loads of prime slaughter animals, will be assembled in the pens of the adjoining stock yards to await the decision of the cattle judge—George Gordon-Davis of Buenos Aires.

Approximately 5,000 samples of grains, small seeds and hay, selected from the choicest crops of the United States and Canada, will represent the entry of virtually every state and province in the Hay and Grain show. Farmers are submitting excellent samples despite the unfavorable weather, according to Director D. I. Christie of the Indiana agricultural experiment station, who is in charge of this section of the show.

About 1,200 farm youths, representing 650,000 Boys' and Girls' club members, will attend the fifth National Club congress to be held in connection with the exhibition. A separate building on the grounds will be exclusively devoted to their contests and demonstrations.

Other features of the show will be educational exhibits by the United States Department of Agriculture and the various state colleges, dealing with such timely subjects as the corn borer menace, evening entertainments, a horse show, "The Meat Shoppe," judging contests, organization meetings and other special events on each day's program.

Reduced rates on all railroads are expected to help swell this year's attendance beyond that of any previous show.

NODAWAY COUNTY FARM NEWS

By BILLY TILSON.

W. T. Throckmorton and son, northwest of Guilford, were transacting business in Maryville yesterday. Mr. Throckmorton reports his corn making around 30 bushels per acre. He is disappointed in the yield. He has 70 head of shoats that he is getting ready for the market and a fine bunch of fall pigs that are making a good growth. He says partures are fine for stock.

The sale of Ernest Stafford, northwast of MBarnard, which was held yesterday, was attended by a good crowd and fair prices were had for the offering. Mr. Stafford will give up farming for a while but doesn't know just what he will engage in at the present.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Bartlett, east of St. Joseph, returned to their home yesterday afternoon after spending a week visiting with their son and family, Harry Bartlett, southwest of Maryville. Mr. Bartlett at one time owned the farm northeast of Maryville known as the Lee farm and built the house that is now on the farm.

Otto Risser, southwest of Parnell, was transacting business in Maryville yesterday. Mr. Risser had his arm broken three months ago and it still keeps him from doing anything but a little "chorning." Otto has a load of cows that have been running on grass for about 90 days. He does not know whether he will ship them out soon or feed them longer.

Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Lawson and family, west of Barnard, were shopping in the city yesterday. O. C. reports the fields in bad condition for corn gathering. He is feeding quite a bunch of hogs and most of his time is taken in getting feed for them.

E. E. and George Hackett, Henry Staples of Burlington Jupnction, were in the city yesterday. E. E. Hackett is feeding two load of hogs and has one load about ready for the market. He says he would like to see the price advance before shipping.

Mark DeBord, northwest of Barnard, reports corn gathering a very slow process. Fields are bad and corn down, making it disagreeable. Huskers are getting 6 to 7 cents per bushel for cribbing down that way.

Earl Williamson and Hiram Groves of the Barnard neighborhood were in the city yesterday. Mr. Groves says he is feeding a fine bunch of hogs and his fall pigs are doing fine.

Fletcher, H. E. and Will Bainum, east of Gaynor, were Maryville visitors yesterday. Fletcher and H. E. report losing most of their hogs with the cholera. He says corn is making a fair yield over that way.

Mr. Pearce, west of Maryville, shipped out 87 big fine hogs yesterday and will be on today's market. He says he had hard work trucking them in to the station.

Five Farms to Be Sold by New Plan

Committee Of Ten Or More Men To Put Value On Land Offered In Audrain County.

Mexico, Mo., Nov. 16.—An innovation in the method of selling farm lands will be installed here Friday and Saturday when five farms of this district will be offered for sale.

The five farms have a total acreage of 1,077 and are expected to be worth between $90,000 and $100,000.

The new plans, which is called "land value stabilizing plan," has been adopted because the "present methods of selling land—in vogue many years—is tedious and unsatisfactory.' Under the plan ten or more men will inspect the five farms before the sale and will announce their concensus of the values of the farm. This will approximate the price under which the farms will be sold.

Three farms will be offered for sale here Friday. They are the places of Judge Alex Carter, Milt Householder and a small farm adjoining the Householder acreage.

Saturday two other farms will be offered for sale at Centralia under a similar plan. They are the farms of Dr. J. W. McAllister and the Sam Brown farm.

Gallatin—The third annual Father and Son Banquet here was attended by 100 persons.

DEAN TIMOTHY BROWN, of the discipline committee, rules Pendleton University under strict law.

JUDITH MARTIN, a new teacher, defies the conventions by seeking as her friends, ERIC WATERS, a radical student, WILL WETHEREL, Eric's frat brother, and EVE GERHART, a town widow.

PROFESSOR PETER DORN, of the astronomy department, admires Judith and disapproves of her acquaintances.

Judith and Eric get into many scrapes and escapades, the last of which was a moonlight hike with Eve Gerhart's set, from which Eric was brought back drunk by "Kitty" Shea, unsavory town character. Judith had been left behind by the party of hikers, and when she found Eric unconscious, was forced to accept the offer of Shea to drive them both back t o town.

Distressed by the affair, Judith decides to run up to the city for the week-end. At the station she meets Dean and Mrs. Timothy Brown.

The Dean says his wife is going to visit relatives in a small towd upstate, but Judith sees her in a city hotel with a handsome man.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XVI.

The dean's wife was laughing over her shoulder at the man. Sparkling, richly gowned, she was scarcely recognizable as the little gray woman who had left Judith in the train.

Neither she nor her companion saw the girl watching them from the next table. All their attention was fixed on each other. The man came back to his own chair and sat down. Judith could see his hand stealing across the table toward Mrs. Brown's. The woman's eyes were starry as she looked at him.

Then Judith moved in her chair, and the dean's wife caught sight of her. She did not break off in the words she was addressing to her companion, but Judith saw her face go white.

Judith ate her salad rapidly and pushed her chair back. She knew that the dean's wife followed her with horror-struck eyes as she left the dining room.

The Sunday night train to Pendleton picked up returning week-enders along the way, until it was nearly as noisy as the one that had first taken Judith to the university. But this time, the clamor was a familiar one, that embraced instead of excluding her.

Judith looked about for Mrs. Brown, but did not see her on the train. Alighting on the thronged platform at Pendleton, she ran into Eric Waters, who had also stepped from her train, bag in hand. "Hello, Judith," he said, reaching for her bag. She yielded it to him somewhat hesitantly.

"Come on," he said to her, striding ahead. "I parked my car at the garage across the street. I'll take you home."

There was nothing to be done but follow him through the crowd. Near the front of the train, they met Dean Brown, walking up and down with his watch in his hand, and his face set in a puzzled frown.

Eric ran into him and backed away, with grinning apologies. The dean glared at him, saw Judith, looked at the two suitcases in Eric's hands. Judith nooded a greeting, which the dean barely acknowledged.

In the car, Eric smoked a while in silence. Judith stubbornly held her tongue also. They were not going toward the Stedway house.

At last Eric threw away his cigaret. "Damn it, Judith, I apologize. I shouldn't have drunk so much on a hike, when I had a woman to take home. I suppose the others guyed you a lot."

Judith's silence was forbidding.

"Come now, Jude, can't you forgive me, when I've humbled myself?" His voice did not sound humble.

"Yes," she said, "I can. I don't hold grudges. I just look out for the next time. Naturally, I don't care to be left out in the woods with 'Kitty' Shea again. So I shan't go with you on any more hikes."

Eric stopped the car and turned to her. "My God! Were you left with Shea? I didn't know that."

"Exactly," said Judith, in a grim voice. "You didn't know what happened to me. And you didn't much care."

Eric was no longer debonair. "Oh, I say, Jude, that's abominable. Of course I cared. Only, I wasn't much in condition just then—to know what happened."

"Just so," said Judith, more grimly still.

Eric fell back in the seat and looked gloomily ahead.

"I suppose you came back with the crowd and one of the fellows piloted me home. I tried to get you by phone next day, to beg your pardon, and when they said you'd left town. I felt pretty rotten. That's why I ran up to the city myself. This town didn't look so good to me, in my state of mind.

"Shea!" He paused, then spoke impetuously. "I swear, Judith, I'll be ashamed of this as long as I live. I wouldn't have left you out there with him for a million dollars. You know that, don't you?"

"Eric," said Judith, bluntly, "just what do you know about Shea?"

"Enough to realize that he's no fit playmate for a little girl." He gave Judith a sheepish look. "You know it was my blamed jealousy that started the trouble. You teased me so all evening, by flirting with that papinjay, Wetherel."

Judith shook her head. "No, Eric it wasn't that. It was your injured pride. You have to be the high chief frog in every puddle."

He threw in his clutch and shifted gears savagely. Nothing more was said until they were going up the Stedway steps.

"Good night," he growled.

Judith went into the house and found a small boy waiting in the hall. He was gnawing at an all-day sucker.

"You Miss Martin?" he gurgled, shifting the sucker to one side of his mouth.

When she assented, he pulled a grimy note out of his pocket and handed it to her. "Miss Brown told me not to give it to anybody but you," he remarked. "That's why I waited."

The Horace class at two o'clock Monday marked the end of an irksome day. Judith had plodded through her classes, unable to conjure up the needed enthusiasm to make them interesting.

Eric came in for his share of her displeasure, when he was asked to translate a passage that contained three obscure gerundives. He had to relinquish it to Miss Reasey.

When the bell rang, Judith cleared her desk and made ready to leave. She had fallen into the college habit of going hatless about the town; but she had a sweater and a bright scarf.

The home of Dean Brown was in Avon place, directly west across town from College road. Judith left the campus and took the western path. Leaves were coming down at every gust of wind and she found a childish pleasure in kicking them along the path ahead of her.

The winding road that led across the Strathmore bridge was lined with old elms and maples in full autumn panoply. Professorial houses of chaste Colonial architecture were set in quiet rows behind the elms, their green blinds carefully drawn, and their brass knockers gleaming in the afternoon sun.

The dean's house in the side street was a Tudor cottage of dark stucco and shingles, with two funereal little fir trees in jars on the door posts.

The dean's wife met Judith at the door. "It was good of you to come, Miss Martin." She led the way into the living room, in which a wood fire burned. Rows of books and delicate prints on the walls bespoke the frugal gentility that Judith had noticed before in the homes of teachers. A bowl of bittersweet stood on the table.

Mrs. Brown motioned her guest to a deep chair by the fire. Judith saw that she was wearing a simple black dress, open at the throat. Her hair was dressed in the extreme of simplicity and her hands were ringless.

Suddenly turned to Judith. "Let's not beat about the bush. What are you going to do about it, Miss Martin"

"Why, I don't know what—" began Judith. But the dean's wife waved the protest aside.

"You do know what I mean. What are you going to do about it."

"Well," replied Judith, slowly, "I don't meddle in matters that do not concern me. I hope that answers your question."

Mrs. Brown shook her head again. "This isn't Utopia. Women don't mind their own affairs, in this world. Please tell me the truth. When and to whom are you going to relate our meeting in Middleburg? Understand, I'm making no demands on you for anything except information. If you say you will tell, I shall make my plans. If not, I'll drop the matter, and—try to believe you." A look of weariness crossed her white face.

"You make it very hard for me to speak, Mrs. Brown. But—I meant it when I said that I do not meddle in other people's business."

The dean's wife looked at her curiously. "Perhaps you ARE telling me the truth. But I've been afraid to trust anybody." She sat clasping and unclasping her hands and staring at the fire.

"Look here, Miss Martin, I'm going to put my cards on the table. It can't do any harm now, and it may make you a little more sympathetic toward your dilemma.

"About the man in Middleburg, I'll tell you nothing." She stopped a moment. "But as for the dean—Timothy Brown is a good man. I hate him, I hate him, I hate him." The words crackled in the still room.

She rose from her chair and walked in a long swinging stride across the room and back to the mantle. "You may do what you like and think what you like. I hate him and I'm glad I deceived him."

Judith stood up. "Mrs. Brown, I don't want you to tell me any more. You're sure to regret having confided in me, I'm afraid. I'm sorry for you. You need never fear that your story will go any farther.

Mrs. Brown's tense body relaxed a little. She shook her head tremulously. "No, it doesn't matter. I've almost reached the end anyway. Twelve years of it. I had to talk to someone—or go mad."

Judith reached a comforting hand. "Don't despair," she said. "There are all sorts of unexpected openings and quirks of fate that let us out of holes that seem unescapable. Can't you buck up and try to fight back a little?"

Mrs. Brown had collapsed in the arm-chair and was sobbing convulsively. Judith stood beside her, helpless. Once she put her hand on the weeping woman's shoulder, but it was shaken off with a nervous shudder of repulsion.

The fire cracked and sparks flew up the chimney. Out in the hall, a grandfather's clock boomed five. Judith glanced at the October sunshine against the window.

"Why don't you put on your things and come for a walk with me," she said. "We'll stop in somewhere and have cocoa and muffins and forget our troubles."

Mrs. Brown dried her eyes with a bit of lace-trimmed linen. "Thank you," she said, chokily. "But I can't come. The dean expects me to be at home when he arrives." She looked up at Judith, trying to smile. "I'm sorry to have made such a scene," she said, with a hint of her normal self-contained graciousness.

Judith took her hand. "I'd like to be your friend. Will you go hiking with me some day soon?"

The dean's wife was about to reply, when a key grated loudly in the front door.

A moment later, the portieres at the wide door of the living room parted slowly, and the dean entered. "What have you done with my door mat?" he said to his wife. "Everybody will track dust over my hall carpet."

Then he saw Judith and his face hardened. "How do you do, Miss Martin?" He was setting his umbrella in a corner. "I trust you and Mr. Waters enjoyed your week-end trip."

(To Be Continued).

Judith knows now that in Dean Brown she has an enemy. In the next chapter she saves Myra from a horrible scandal.

KEEP YOUR BOTTLES OF MEDICINE MARKED

This Will Prevent Accidents Due to Taking the Wrong Remedy Which Frequently Occur When Drugs Are Not Labeled.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States Senator From New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Never keep a bottle in your home unless it has a label telling clearly what it contains.

I was in a home the other day when a sick man asked to have his back rubbed with liniment. He told where the bottle could be found. His daughter ran back and forth with a dozen bottles or so, each containing some sort of "medicine," but nobody could be sure which bottle held the liniment.

It is bad enough to keep unlabeled bottles containing substances for external application. Nothing worse than a severe burn is likely to result from the use of the wrong thing.

But it is dreadful to think of the serious and even fatal effects of taking the wrong medicine. These accidents are like the too-common deaths from the discharge of firearms which they "didn't know were loaded."

Memory is too uncertain to be trusted. Bottles, unless they are labeled, are too much alike to be used as containers for poisons. It is easy to make a mistake.

I know a doctor who has to be fed through an opening into his stomach. His gullet was burned and is closed because he drank household ammonia instead of aromatic spirits of ammonia.

Another doctor friend had a sore eye. On the mantel-self was a bottle of eye drops—also a bottle of spirits of camphor. Neither one had a label, and the doctor was trusting to memory to tell him which. The bottles looked alike, but the doctor was so confident he was right that he didn't stop to smell even. The camphor was squirted into the eye.

Another doctor had trouble with his eyes and decided to inject into them a solution of argyrol. By mistake he used iodine, similar in color, and contained in an unlabeled bottle. He has a blind eye now.

If doctors make such mistakes, what can you say about lay people who permit bottles and packages of unknown liquids and pills and powders to accumulate about the house? I beg of you not to do it.

The very minute you fill a bottle with anything, label it. Write clearly and distinctly. Renew the label when it gets stained.

Medicines, to be of value, must be fresh. If kept too long they get stale and germs may multiply in them. Salves and ointments, particularly if they have animal or vegetable greases as a base, will become rancid.

It is a crime against your precious eyesight to use eye-drops which were prepared a year or so ago. If the eyes were not very sore before, they may be seriously infected by using stale eye medicine.

Not many remedies are needed in the average household. Have these in nicely labeled bottles and boxes. Have the bottles well and tightly corked. When you have finished the care of any trouble pour the medicine down the sink, or put it where it can do no harm to man or beast.

Have one place where all the household remedies are kept. Make this a dark and dustless receptacle and locate it in a cool place. Have every package labeled, showing the ingredients, its percentage of strength and the date you bought it.

Then if you will read the label before applying the remedy there will never be a mistake in your house.

Mexican Girl Sees First Car; Steals It

Eagle Grove, Ia., Nov. 17.—A 17-year-old Mexican girl was desirous of moving her traveling bags from Eagle Grove to Estherville.

She had never seen a motor car.

However, after John Powell, traveling salesman, reported his motor car had been stolen, the sheriff located the motor car in Estherville, where the Mexican girl had driven it.

She said she was through with the motor car—had wanted it only to move her bags from one town to the other. She did not explain how she mastered the mechanisms of the motor car.

Strife-Torn Counties Elect New Sheriffs

George Galligan, John Small And E. R. Deimling About To Fade From Southern Illinois Spotlight.

Herrin, Ill., Nov. 17.—Figures who have been prominent in anti-crime circles of Southern Illinois for the past year or two are about to fade from official light.

Three sheriffs who have been prominent in official circles will relinquish office early next month.

The three include Sheriff George Galligan, nemesis of the Ku Klux Klan in Williamson County; Sheriff John Small of Saline County, and Sheriff E. R. Deimling of Madison County.

All three have gained considerable mention through their work in crime circles, with the most of the spotlight having been turned on Galligan, who was sheriff of Williamson County when the Ku Klux Klan activities were at their height. Numerous times he has been in the center of shooting affrays and has been selected for murder several times—but always has managed to escape.

Both Galligan and Small will be succeeded in office by men who have worked under them.

"Me for Ma!"

Queens mean nothing at all in the life of this wee baby in Kirby, Wyo. The infant's mother carried it down to meet Queen Marie's train, and Queen Marie leaned far over the railing of her car to shake its hand. But the baby never gave Marie a fumble. "Me for Ma!" its expression seemed to say.

Herrin Gangsters Hold Up Pool Room; 12 of Victims Armed

Herrin, Ill., Nov. 17.—Six men, said to be members of the Birger gang, entered the United Cigar and Pool room. There were some 15 or 18 men playing pool in the place.

"Stick 'em up fast," the leader of the gang said. "Now if any of you fellows have guns, toss them on the billiard table."

Twelve guns hit the pool table immediately.

The gangsters however didn't take the guns as they were seeking a certain man who was not in the building.

Attorney Sues for Insurance of Slayer

Belleville, Ill., Nov. 17.— N. W. Parden, attorney, has filed suit in circuit court to collect $1,000 insurance from the Victory Life Insurance Company, due to the Rev. James Gaddy and which Parden claims was assigned to him for attorney fees.

The insurance was from the estate of Jack Smith, Brooklyn, Ill., negro, for whose murder the Rev. Gaddy, negro, was convicted. It was the fact that the policy was taken out, payable to Gaddy, shortly before the murder that led to the pastor's arrest and conviction.

Closing Grain Review.

Chicago, Nov. 17.—Wheat spun further downward today on the Chicago Board of Trade, losing ground steadily after a decided rally that followed the big break of the opening.

Wheat closed ½ to ¾ cents lower.

Steady arrival of bearish news from the Argentine, together with weakness of Liverpool and Winnipeg, rye losing 4½ cents on the latter pit today, prevented any further recuperation of wheat and again sank to a new low on the movement.

Corn again refused to be influenced by the major grain and closed higher, ⅞ cents up in all positions. Cash prices were ½ to 1½ cents higher.

Oats were steady, closing ¼ cent higher on all deliveries.

Provisions closed unchanged.

CAGE TOURNEY IS ANNOUNCED

COLLEGE TO ENTERTAIN OUT-DOOR BASKETBALL CHAMPS.

FOR DISTRICT TITLE

Each of Nineteen Counties Is Invited to Send Winning Team Here on December 3 and 4.

The State Teachers College will sponsor an outdoor basketball tournament indoors, for the winners of the outdoor tournaments of the nineteen counties in this district. This tournament will be held at the College gymnasium on December 3 and 4, according to an announcement made this morning by Uel W. Lamkin, president of the College.

It has been the policy of the College to sponsor an indoor tournament each year for outdoor teams. Usually the tourney is held during the football season, it will not be held until December this year because many counties have not held their elimination tournaments.

As usual, the College will provide entertainment for the visiting teams and coaches until they are eliminated from the tournament. Meals will be furnished at the College cafeteria and rooms will be secured for the visitors in Maryville homes.

This tournament will be for boys' teams only. There will be no girls tournament this year, nor at any time in the future., The Missouri High School Athletic Association has gone on record as being opposed to interscholastic athletics for girls, and the College will abide by this decision.

A number of the counties have held their elimination tournaments, and others will be held this week or next. Only teams which have been declared county champions will be allowed to participate in the tournament.

The College will give an award to the winning team in the tournament.

BEARCATS TO LOSE GAME?

LAWRENCE WARNS INDIFFERENT TEAM.

PRACTICE IS A JOKE

Coach Predicts Hard Fight With Thanksgiving Rival, Tarkio; Flays Lack of School Spirit.

There is likely to be much woe in the camp of the Bearcat if one listens to Coach H. Frank Lawrence. The College coach is entirely serious. There is no doubt of that. And all because his Bearcats refuse to listen to him as regards the last game of the season—the one with Tarkio on Thanksgiving Day.

Said Coach Lawrence this morning:

"Unless the team wakes up before this week is over, there is no help next week. We do not have a game for this week. I purposely left the week end vacant that bruises and injuries might rest. I intended to have a thorough practice week in which all the season's faults might be gone over. But do you think that I can do it? I'll say I can't.

"Practice since the game with Warrensburg is fast becoming a joke. Two or three men are absent this night and two or three others the next. This man has to go home early. This one has to do this and that. At no time since the Warrensburg game have I had the entire personnel out to practice.

"And those who come out. Will they practice? They will not. With the exception of a very few, they do not pay attention to what is being said, they won't tackle; they won't run interference; they won't do anything except when driven to it. Why, you ask? Because in spite of the fact they have lost two games this year, the only two lost in two years, they still think they are the game's prima donnas, too good to listen to mere coaches and plenty good enough to beat Tarkio without any effort on their part. Look them over. This team who met defeat 50 to 7 and 12 to 0, still capable of beating anyone without any more practice.

"Since last Thursday," the coach continued, there has been no more spirit than if the school had never had a football team. Not only the squad. The students have suffered a relapse also. And the town too thinks that the Tarkio game is already settled. That's just the trouble.

"Everybody thinks that the Tarkio game is just a matter of suiting up and getting it over with. Let me tell you, that is just what Missouri thought last year when, with a team four touchdowns better than Kansas, they went to Lawrence, scored in the first five minutes of play and then lost 10 to 7. Oklahoma thought the same thing this fall when after winning from Missouri they were beaten by Kansas, 10 to 9.

"A worthy team would carry on in the face of lack of spirit by the student body. A worthy team would not be fooled by false opinions of townsmen and students, but would pay attention to their coaches who should know a little more about it. This game is far from being the "grapes" the average fan would have you believe, but the heroes who battles so ferociously against the Kirksville Bulldogs, evidently fear no team if one can judge by their present attitude. So little fear do they have, that they willingly break training at any and all times since the Mules lowered the standards of the Green and White. I was willing that they break training over the week end but when, in the face of what victory for Tarkio would mean to them, they insist on keeping no rules, then I can only judge that they are willing to meet defeat. Rules mean nothing to them now. The sad part is that they are aided in breaking training rules by their sweet girl friends who should have a more wholesome respect for the team on which her darling plays.

"The apathy of the Bearcats may be caused by the fact that Tarkio has lost all her conference games this year, although I personally think it is because they think they are perfect plus. At least then it is the reason why the town tells them it will be easy. It is the reason why the students will all go home and not stay and support their team as they should do.

"This is my seventh year as a coach and I want to tell you something. The worst Tarkio has been beaten this year by any team is by the margin of 10 points. From the way the Bearcats have played all year, 10 points is a great deal for them to score. It is certain in my mind that they will not score the 42 points that the team last year scored, and I am also certain that Tarkio will score on them as they did last year when they hung up 15 points. What is more, unless the Bearcats wake up soon—I am just as certain that they will be on the short end of whatever score is made.

"They can win, but they won't unless someone jars their self conceit. I've tried to do it, but as I have said, they all know more than I do now."

Strong Appeal in Red Cross Poster

THIS new American Red Cross poster, the work of Lawrence Wilbur, is regarded as one of the most notable of Red Cross Roll Call posters since the world-famous "Greatest Mother in the World" design of war days.

More than 150,000 copies of this new poster, displayed in every county of the United States, will be used to call attention to the enrollment campaign of the American Red Cross, for 1927 membership. For this purpose the Red Cross will launch the Tenth Annual Roll Call of members on Armistice Day, November 11, and continues the appeal until Thanksgiving, November 25, this year. Through membership the Red Cross derives support for its varied activities from the duty of extending relief in disaster, to the equally important service for disabled veterans, together with many other responsibilities which are obligations of the organization under its charter from Congress.

Without mechanical adjustment of any kind, the Whippet arrived in Tia Juana, Mexico, at 2:17 p. m. Tuesday, October 5th, indicating the definite superiority of Whippet construction.
